ISLAMABAD: Pakistan's engagement with Africa is gradually growing despite the slowdown in the implementation of the '2019 Engage Africa Policy', said Additional Secretary (Africa) at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs Sheryar Akbar Khan on Thursday.

He was speaking at the launch of the country's first think-tank on Africa - Pakistan-Africa Institute for Development & Research (PAIDAR) - which has been founded by Senator Mushahid Hussain Syed. The think-tank was launched at a seminar hosted by the Institute of Strategic Studies Islamabad (ISSI) with the theme: "Reviving the Bandung spirit of Afro-Asian solidarity: Pakistan-Africa relations".

PAIDAR's launch coincided with the 69th anniversary of the Bandung conference of Asian and African nations held on April 18, 1955 in Indonesia in which Pakistan participated together with China as well as countries from Africa.

The senior foreign ministry official said the first phase of Engage Africa Policy was successfully implemented under which Pakistan opened five new missions in Africa taking Pakistan's diplomatic presence in the continent to 20.

Moreover, two existing missions were upgraded.

Five more missions were planned to be opened under the Phase-II of the policy, but financial constraints forced revision of the goals and now the plan is to add one mission every year, he added.

Additionally, MoUs for political consultations have been signed with 10 African countries, Mr Khan said, adding that previously there were such arrangements with only seven countries in the continent.

Ethiopia and Zimbabwe opened diplomatic missions in Pakistan over the past two years. Rwanda and Tanzania are, meanwhile, opening their missions here later this year.

Senator Mushahid said Africa was a pivotal player in the resurgence of the Global South with 54 members of the African Union.

Outlining the objectives of the new Africa specific think-tank, Senator Mushahid said it was established to restore Pakistan's foreign policy priority orientation and involvement in Africa and for reviving Pakistan-Africa bond through people-to-people exchanges and business-to-business connectivity in such areas as education, environment and climate change, trade and investment, energy, promoting the UN's Sustainable Development Goals, maritime affairs, sports, tourism and culture.

Director General ISSI Amb Sohail Mahmood said that deeper engagement with Africa remains a strategic imperative for Pakistan.

"Forging a strong and effective partnership for peace, progress and prosperity is an indispensable goal, which should be advanced through a clear vision, consistent policy, and a long-term strategy," he said.

Dean of the Islamabad-based African Corps Amb Mohammed Karmoune identified science and technology, agriculture, industrial cooperation and the promotion of trade and investments as the potential areas of cooperation between Pakistan and African Countries.

Ethiopian envoy Jemal Beker said Pakistan government's 'Look Africa' and 'Engage Africa' policies led to the establishment of Ethiopia's Mission in Islamabad as well as the commencement of Ethiopian airline direct flights to Pakistan.

Kenyan High Commissioner Mary Nyambura Kamau urged Pakistan to focus on enhancing economic cooperation through trade, investment, joint ventures, tourism, and technology exchange. This, she suggested, could be done both through regional blocks and bilateral levels.

The thematic focus of the seminar was on "Reviving the Bandung Spirit of Afro-Asian Solidarity: Pakistan-Africa Relations."

President PAIDAR, Senator Mushahid Hussain Sayed, was the keynote speaker while those also spoke on the occasion include; Mohammed Karmoune, Dean of the African Envoys Corps and Ambassador of Morocco;

Mary Nyambura Kamau, High Commissioner of Kenya to Pakistan; Jemal Beker Abdulla, Ambassador of Ethiopia to Pakistan; Ambassador Aftab Hassan, High Commissioner of Pakistan to South Africa; Ambassador Atif Sharif Mian, Pakistan's Ambassador to the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia, and African Union; Ambassador Arshad Jan Pathan, High Commissioner of Pakistan to Mauritius; Shehryar Akbar Khan, Additional Secretary Africa, Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MOFA); the South with 54 African Union members.

He underscored Pakistan's longstanding ties with Africa, dating back to pre-independence when Quaid-i-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah initiated relations with Egypt in 1946.

Mushahid outlined PAIDAR's objectives, aiming to reinvigorate Pakistan-Africa relations through people-to-people and business-to-business exchanges. He said PAIDAR seeks to prioritize mutual interests, promoting cooperation in education, environment, trade, energy, and sustainable development goals.

Mohammed Karmoune said that the relations between Pakistan and Africa are based on the principles of mutual respect, cooperation, and solidarity. Pakistan and Africa need to work together to launch joint ventures in different economic sectors. He said that development could be achieved mainly through science and technology, agriculture, industrial cooperation and the promotion of trade and investments.

Jemal Beker said that the "Look Africa" and "Engage Africa" policies of the Government of Pakistan are the steps in the right direction, which have led to the establishment of Ethiopia's Mission in Islamabad as well as the commencement of Ethiopian airline direct flights to Pakistan. He also highlighted mutually beneficial opportunities for both sides in various sectors.

Mary Nyambura Kamau highlighted the historical cooperation between Africa and Pakistan, which she said is characterized by multifaceted ECOWAS, AMU, SADC, and EAC. Additionally, she urged Pakistan to focus on enhancing economic cooperation in trade, investment, joint ventures, tourism, and technology through regional blocks and bilateral levels.

Ambassador Aftab Hassan said that Pakistan enjoys historical and cordial relations with African countries under the "Bandung Spirit" of solidarity. He said that there is a pressing need for developing robust high-level contacts between Pakistan and African nations as well as strengthening institutional mechanisms to sustain long-term cooperation. In this context, he suggested practical measures to further deepen diplomatic, economic, and people-to-people engagement with Africa.

Ambassador Atif Sharif Mian stated that Ethiopia is one of most influential countries in Africa. Pakistan attaches high importance to its relations with Ethiopia in recognition of her geo-economic potential and in line with Pakistan's "Engage Africa" policy. The Ethiopian leadership also espouses closer relations with Pakistan, which was evident by their decision to establish Ethiopian Mission in Islamabad in 2022.

Ambassador Arshad Jan Pathan said that the 21st century belongs to Afro-Asia continents. It is not the political will that is lacking; it is the will of the bureaucracy that is lacking to make the "Engage Africa" policy a success.

He said that all stakeholders, particularly the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Ministry of Commerce have to work together to make the policy a collective success. He also highlighted the challenges in the way of Pakistan's increased collaboration with Africa-related regional platforms and proposed that PAIDAR should suggest solutions for addressing them.

Shehryar Akbar Khan said that under the "Engage Africa" policy, Pakistan remains committed to promoting peace, prosperity, and shared progress between the people of Pakistan and Africa. Under the policy, Phase-I has been successfully executed. Pakistan's further diplomatic missions in Africa will be established incrementally.

He further highlighted that in the past seven months, MOFA has processed 10 MoUs on establishing Bilateral Political Consultations with various African countries.

Amina Khan, who moderated the session, in her remarks, said that Pakistan's commitment to engaging with Africa is underscored by Pakistan's comprehensive "Engage Africa" policy.

Ambassador Sohail Mahmood (retired), in his remarks, highlighted Pakistan's wholehearted support for the liberation struggles of African nations and Pakistan's contribution to Africa's peace and security through consistent participation in UN Peacekeeping operations since 1960.
